Overview

Energy storage developer and system integrator Energy Vault has completed its acquisition of the 125MW/1,000MWh Stoney Creek battery energy storage system (BESS) in New South Wales, Australia, after receiving approval from the country's Foreign Investment Review Board (FIRB). Why is NSW opening a new energy storage tender?

NSW has opened the largest energy storage tender in NSW history, seeking new long-duration storage projects to boost electricity reliability and keep the lights on in NSW. These projects will help ensure a steady and reliable supply of energy around the clock.

What are Australia's major energy projects?

States like New South Wales and South Australia are leading with major projects, such as: Woreen Battery Energy Storage System (350 MW / 1.4 GWh) in Victoria. Portland Energy Park, which will combine storage with renewable generation. These investments support Australia's quick move away from coal.

Can long-duration storage projects be supported by the NSW electricity infrastructure roadmap?

Long-duration storage projects can bid for financial support under the new NSW Electricity Infrastructure Roadmap Tender 5 which is now open. This tender offers support for up to 1 gigawatt of projects, which can each release energy into the NSW grid for at least 8 hours.

Is energy storage a climate solution in Australia?

Australia's energy transition is moving quickly, with batteries emerging as the driving force. With billions in investment and record projects, the stage is set for energy storage to become a key technology. This is more than a business chance—it's a climate solution.
