Russia s energy storage product exports will be restricted

Overview

Will Russia return to pre-war energy supplies if sanctions are eased?

No change in EU imports of Russian oil and gas is expected until Brussels next reviews the current sanctions package. Yet Europe remains wary of Russia and has a broad target to halt all Russian oil and gas imports by 2027, making the return to pre-war energy supplies unlikely even if sanctions are eased.

How will US sanctions affect Russian energy exports & revenues?

The easing of U.S. financial sanctions would have a bigger impact on Russian energy exports and revenues. By blocking major Russian banks from the SWIFT global payments system and other financial services, the U.S. and EU sanctions brought higher fees and months of payment delays for Russian exporters forced to use alternative payment schemes.

Are there any sanctions on Russian pipeline gas imports?

There are no sanctions on imports of Russian pipeline gas, but most countries stopped buying after Russia invaded Ukraine, making Russia's pipeline gas export monopoly Gazprom possibly the largest corporate casualty of the conflict. U.S. sanctions also included companies supporting the development of Russia's Arctic LNG 2 project.

Will European Union phase out Russian natural gas imports by 2027?

The European Union agreed Wednesday to phase out Russian natural gas imports by late 2027 as part of an effort to end the bloc's decade-long dependency on Russian energy.
